WIDAL TEST

Test Description:

- For the detection of the serum agglutinins (O, H) in the patient's serum as an aid to diagnosis of typhoid and paratyphoid fever.
- Typhoid fever continues to be a major global health problem, Worldwide, sixteen million cases of typhoid fever and 1.3 billion cases of gastroenteritis are estimated to occur annually
- Typhoid fever is endemic in all parts of India with estimated 4.8 million cases per year. S. paratyphi A is also prevalent in India and other Asian countries with proportion of typhoid to paratyphoid A being 10:1
- O antibodies- appear 6 -8 days after infection, they rise first and decline quickly after the illness.
- H antibodies- appear 10- 12 days after infection and persist longer

Test Interpretation:

- Positive: Presence of agglutination is a positive result and indicates presence of the corresponding antibody in the patient's serum.
- Negative: No agglutination is a negative test result and indicates absence of the corresponding antibody in the patient serum.
- Single Widal test is of little clinical relevance and should be interpreted with caution.
- A titer of more than 1: 100 for O antibodies and 1: 200 H antibodies is considered to be significant
- Paired Widal Test: Demonstration of a rising titer is significant. Necessary to evaluate two or more sera 7-10 days' intervals. At least 4 times increase in titers is considered positive.

Limitations:

- False positive results (Anamnestic response) - cross reactions from other diseases like- Malaria, Hepatitis, Infection with other Salmonella species, Typhus, Chronic liver disease associated with raised globulin levels, Other autoimmune diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis and nephrotic syndrome, Previous Typhoid vaccination (TAB vaccine)
- False negative Widal tests may be due to severe hypoproteinaemia, early stage of infection, early administration of antibiotics.

Reflex Test:

1. Blood Culture
2. Salmonella typhi IgM (Immunochromatography)
